- 7.02.03 In all events with six (6) or more competitors the following procedure will apply to the order of skating draw. Where the men's and ladies' events are combined for Freeskating or Solo Dance the event shall be calculated as one event to determine the placings of each minority and majority gender within the event. The minority gender will be removed from the short programme/compulsory dance placings and the majority gender recalculated to achieve placings. The order of skating is then drawn within each group. If the numbers in any group are more than five (5) the skating order shall be drawn in two (2) groups according to placement eg (1-3) and (4-7). In clarification, if there are more than five skaters in the top group then the group will be divided into 2 according to CIPA rules. So if the top group has 7 and there are 15 skaters in the competition, the skaters placed 4,5,6,7 will draw for skating order 9.10.11.12 and the skaters placed 1,2,3 will draw for starting order 13,14 and 15.

Where there are an uneven number of contestants, the extra skater will be included in group 1. The first contestant in group 1 shall start the first figure; the first contestant in group 2 shall start the second figure etc.
- Freeskating
In freeskating the draw for the long programme shall be determined from the results of the short programme. The order of skating will be established by reversing the placing obtained from the short programme. Lowest placed contestants shall be drawn in the first group to compete with the highest placed contestants in the short programme skating in the final group
- Dance Skating
In dance skating the list of dance contestants in the order drawn shall be divided into groups according to the number of dances being skated. The first contestant in the first group will start the first dance; the first contestant in the second group will start the second dance etc. Where the freedance and the creative solo dance are skated as part of the whole dance event (not as separate events) the skating order will be redrawn. The lowest placed contestants shall be drawn in the first group to compete, with the highest placed contestants in the compulsory dance section skating in the final group.

7.02.05 An exemption to this rule is permissible when there are only two competitors but only with the consent of both.

9.01.05 The skater is allowed to finish his/her programme within the maximum time set for the event. Timing shall start with the first movement of the contestant or either member of the team. If the skater or team skate past the allocated time it shall be announced by the sound of a whistle by the Referee. If the skater is below the minimum time set the actual time skated shall be announced to the judges.

9.01.06 A full list of deductions for all disciplines of Artistic skating can be found in the CIPA rule book.

9.02 INTERRUPTION OF SKATING (BROKEN SKATE RULE)

9.02.01 The following actions shall be taken should a contestant or team encounter an interruption of skating as outlined below.

Illness or injury: The contestant must be able to skate his or her entire performance within a ten (10) minute recuperation period. Otherwise, the judges will assign a mark of point zero (.0). Judging shall commence at the point of interruption during the re-skate.

Mechanical Failure: The Referee finds that the interruption is justified, he or she shall allow the contestant to make the necessary repairs within an acceptable amount of time, then re-skate the entire programme, with judges scoring from the point of interruption.

Costume Failure: If a costume failure becomes hazardous, indecent or embarrassing the referee should stop the contestant and order a total re-skate of the programme, with judging to commence at the point of interruption.

Outside interference: The contestant shall re-skate the entire figure/programme. The referee shall instruct the judges to ignore the original performance and judge anew without penalty.

Music Failure: In pairs skating, free skating and dance skating, music failure shall be considered as outside interference. The referee must stop the contestant or team in any case of music failure.

Official Error: If the referee inadvertently stops the contestant or team before their performance has been completed, it shall be considered as outside interference.

Unreasonable stoppage: If a contestant or team interrupts their performance for any unjustified reason, a mark of point zero (.0) shall be assigned by the judges. In this case, a contestant shall receive no placement in the event. The referee shall determine whether or not the failure falls under the above-mentioned interruption of skating rules.

Re-skate: The judges shall not observe the contestant during the re-skate until the point of interruption is reached. The referee shall signal when the contestant has reached this point by sounding a whistle. In a free skating event, the referee and assistant referee shall observe the contestant to ensure that he or she performs the movements of the programme. If the referee feels that the contestant is unduly changing the programme, or skating it so as to be rested for the remaining portion, a mark of point zero (.0) shall be assigned by the judges.

Order of skating: In case of interruption, the order of skating for the event may be adjusted if necessary, under the following rules: In figure skating and compulsory dance events, the next figure or dance will not be started until the affected contestant or team has completed the figure or dance during which the interruption occurred. In free skating final program, no contestant shall skate in a different group from the one into which he or she was originally assigned.

When an interruption of skating occurs the skater must report immediately to the Referee, without leaving the skating surface.

In Precision the Captain of the team must report this to the Referee, without the team leaving the skating surface.

9.02.02 No allowance can be made by the judges for personal mishaps, which occur through the fault of the skater.

9.02.03 Precision- If circumstances arise jeopardising the safety of a competitor and/or team, the routine may be stopped at the signal (whistle) of the Referee. The Referee must interrupt the performance if, in his/her opinion, medical attention is required. If the Referee signals for the routine to stop, the watch must be stopped and judges cease marking. A complete routine will be reskated. The Referee will indicate the point of the interruption from which judging will continue.
